ridge Cut-off.

The condemnation proceedings brought by the Oregon Short Line company against a number of owners of land along the line of its Sandridg-cut-off leading from Thirty-first to near the Weber county poor farm, came on for consideration before Judge Hewell. The railroad company asked for the condemnation of portions of the farms of Wander Bouhuis, Christian Bouhius, and C. E. Bennett. The court granted the railroad company the right to enter upon the land desired, condemning a strip 200 feet wide. The court ordered that the railroad company must provide means for the conveying of water to the defendants farms, so that their water rights are protected. He also fixed the company's bond in the C. E. Bennett case at $7,000, in the Wander Bouhius case at $10,000, and in the Christian Bouhius case at $15,000, pending the decision of the court as to the amount of money it must pay for the condemned land. DISTRICT COURT HEARINGS.

Important Irrigation Decision-Settings For Sept. Term-Traveling Men's Day. Special Correspondence.

Richfield, Sevier Co., September 1 .-On Monday and Tuesday of this week Judge Morse occupied the bench of the Sixth Judicial District court, sit-ting at Richfield, for the purpose of hearing a demurrer in the case of the Richfield Irrigation Co. et al. This is a big law sulf involver. the Richfield Irrigation Co. et al. This is a big law suit involving all of the waters of the Sevier river and its tributaries. The Sevier Valley Canal Co., one of the defendants, filed a motion asking the court to annul and set aside that portion of the "Johnson decree" which determined the several rights of the plaintiffs for the reason that the court exceeded its jurisdiction in determining such rights. To this motion the plaintiffs demurred and this motion the plaintiffs demurred and after spending two days in hearing the arguments of counsel for the var-fous litigants the court overruled the demurrer. This action on the part of the court has the effect of leaving the rights of most of the irrigation companies of this valley practically un-determined as among themselves. It is determined as among themselves. It is generally conceded that the court's ac-tion was not only in accordance with law, but in the interest of justice.
